Pictured are Olivia and her sister Sydney (right). Olivia has Edwards Syndrome. Around 95% of Edwards Syndrome babies die before birth. Of the live-born infants with Edwards Syndrome, only 50% live to 2 months. Doctors shared the fatality of her disease, warning her family that she may be blind and deaf. Olivia has been called nothing less than a miracle by her doctors. She can see, hear, move, and smile. Upon birth, Olivia was admitted to Mercy's pediatric hospice program, but has since transferred to Mercy's pediatric home health. Olivia is critically ill, but has thrived with the support of Mercy's pediatric home care.

Guardian Angel makes Mercy's pediatric home care possible.
